Just a Touch of Glamour

“Every space deserves a little bit of glamour,” says Nara Callanan, owner and designer of Nara Callanan Interiors, a residential interior design firm providing a modern take on traditional design.

Describing glamour as something out of the ordinary in every room, Callanan says it can be “as sophisticated as a crystal chandelier or as simple as a bold pattern adding unique flair.”

While she knows that clients often choose designers based on aesthetic preference, Callanan acknowledges her approach to design is what persuades clients to keep coming back. “They want a designer who listens with patience and thinks creatively,” she says. “That’s how my clients describe me.”

Callanan utilizes technology to help clients visualize the end results. “I’ll text them a quick sketch or show them online virtual models of the finished product,” she says. “Clients want to know what to expect, and if you can help them move through the space and expose them to cutting-edge design, they’re willing to implement designs that make their homes stand out.”
